WHEN CAN YOU WITHDRAW YOUR SAVINGS?

The savings accumulated in a PPK account will be each participant's private funds. In the case of divorce (where the regime of joint marital property applies) the money is divided, and in the case of the participant's death the money will be inherited.

BEFORE THE AGE OF 60:

The employee may withdraw his or her savings accumulated in PPK at any time.

When making a request for withdrawal, the participant will receive the accumulated savings less:

- capital gains tax,
- 30% of the value of the employer's contributions – the collected 30% will be recorded for the employee as a pension insurance contribution at the Social Insurance Institution (ZUS)
- funds contributed by the State.

In addition, in the case of special life situations you may withdraw your accumulated savings before the age of 60:

- when you, your spouse or your child becomes seriously ill – maximum 25% of the money (with no necessity to repay),
- for covering your own contribution when taking out a loan for a flat or house construction, but only if you are below 45 years of age – maximum 100% of money (with the obligation to repay within a maximum of 15 years).

AFTER THE AGE OF 60:

If you decide not to withdraw your savings earlier from PPK, you may withdraw the money as you turn 60. In the most profitable variant in terms of tax, you will receive:

- a lump sum withdrawal being 25% of the accumulated savings;
- the remaining 75% of savings paid out in a minimum of 120 monthly instalments.

Fewer instalments in which the remaining savings will be withdrawn – including withdrawal of all the money on a one-off basis (in 1 instalment) – will result in the necessity to pay tax.

Each participant will be automatically assigned to the relevant target-date fund based on his or her date of birth. The participant will invest in this single fund throughout the saving period. Investing in PPK funds has many advantages, but it is important to remember that the benefits are accompanied by risks that may result in failure to achieve the expected return on investment, such as among others:

- market risks, e.g. change in the country's economic situation, inflation and interest rates, legal regulations, currency exchange rates,
- credit risks, e.g. deterioration of the issuers' financial standing, including downgrading of the credit rating by a recognised rating agency,
- investment risks, such as a change in the liquidity of issuers, a fall in the value or an increase in the price of financial instruments (such as shares or bonds)
- operational risks, e.g. irregularities in respect of the fund management company's (TFI) IT systems or procedures of concluding transactions,
- risk of failure to settle the transactions concluded by the fund within the period specified in the transaction agreement.

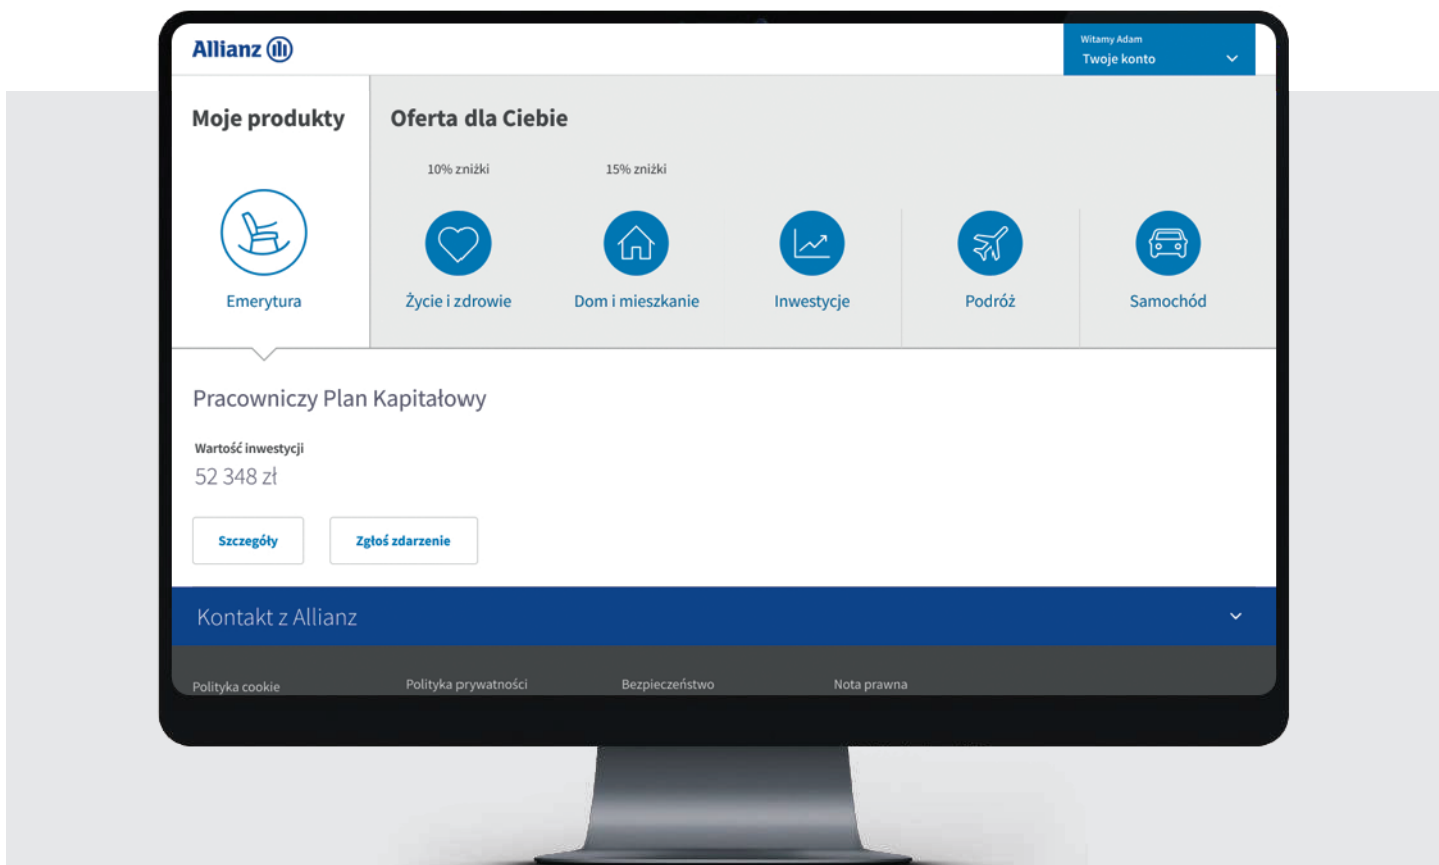

A detailed description of the risks connected with investing in a given fund may be found in the prospectus. TFI Allianz Polska S.A. makes every effort to limit the risks connected with an investment in PPK funds.
